Bringing the very best of Pocket Gamer Connects into digital form

Learn from leading global experts, connect with developers, publishers, investors, tool-makers, monetisation companies and more – all without leaving the home or office!
The coronavirus (COVID-19) may still be causing disruption in the live conference industry, but the need to connect with our peers and prospective partners remains, as essential as ever.

In our continuing mission to serve the games industry, Steel Media has been hosting what we believe is a solution in the form of PG Connects Digital events. We've completed two so far: conferences taking place entirely online, facilitating business connections and information sharing without the need to travel.

We've been hosting Pocket Gamer Connects conferences in Helsinki for many years now, but unfortunately the global situation in 2020 has prompted us to take this conference online in September too, making this our third such digital event.

Don’t worry! We can’t replace all of the benefits of a live conference, but the event will distil as much of the content and spirit as we can from our traditional Helsinki events you have come to know and love over the last few years.

That means expert talks and panels, a new meeting platform (we’re using MeetToMatch now, with built-in video conferencing), digital versions of Big Indie Pitches and fringe events like Investor Connector, and a few more surprises too.

We’re also running our partner event, Blockchain Gamer LIVE! Digital at the same time. With six tracks about the distributed tech that has the potential to disrupt the games industry, it’s the perfect addition for the blockchain curious. Attendees to each event will have full access to the other.

We’re expecting over 1500 attendees to take part over the week from across the world, meaning whichever event is your focus, you’ll encounter the same mix of developers, publishers, tool-makers, monetisation experts and investors, as at our biggest live events. Indeed we’d expect even more diversity, as those who may not typically travel can join in. Rest assured we’ll do what we can to foreground and celebrate the best of Finland as we traditionally do at this time of year.

We’ll be broadcasting and recording conference content, with talks from over 230 speakers across 21 themed tracks. Suffice to say, there are multiple sponsorship opportunities, from branding to tracks, and many other ways to get involved.
